

Assistant Professor of Economics

Start date: August 18, 2019

The Economics Department at the University of Kansas is seeking candidates for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position to begin in the Fall semester. Candidates should possess a strong emphasis in macroeconomics as a major field. Candidates must be able to teach macroeconomics for undergraduate and graduate students, and should contribute to broader university research environment. This position includes the endowed appointment of Oswald Scholar, which provides research support and a discretionary fund.

KU is a Research 1 institution, the flagship of the Kansas system, and a member of the Association of American Universities (AAU). It is located in Lawrence, a thriving and progressive community, which lies close to Kansas City.

For a complete announcement and to apply online, go to: <https://employment.ku.edu/academic/12863BR>. Initial review of applications will begin November 15, 2018. Women, minorities and candidates, who will contribute to the climate of diversity in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, including diversity of scholarly approaches are especially encouraged to apply.

Applications due
November 15, 2018

